Longer Life Span Poses Big Problem for Industry

If industry continues its present retirement practices, it will be faced with a seriously depleted labor pool and top heavy pension costs.

This opinion was expressed by Dr. S. Charles Franco, associate medical director of the Consolidated Edison Company of New York. Dr. Franco spoke before the Section on Preventive and Industrial Medicine and Public Health at the annual meeting of the American Medical Association.

He cited the increase in life expectancy since the turn of the century. The number of people age 65 and over has quadrupled whereas the population has only doubled, he pointed out.

"Today, one out of 12 persons is over 65 years of age," he said. "By 1975, this number will soar to one out of every nine persons. The gap between retirement and death now stands at 8 1/2 years, about double the length in 1900. Under the present trend it will have tripled by 1975."

Unless industrial retirement policies are changed, Dr. Franco said, the individual worker will be faced with increased years of inactivity, and with a drastically reduced income, under conditions which are psychologically and physically degenerative.

"The fact is widely recognized and accepted that it is a work man's chronological age which necessitates his retirement at age 65, but rather the physical disabilities which normally accompany advanced age," he added. "Our aim, then, should be to free workers, as much as possible, from these disabilities."

He urged rehabilitation of workers of any age who are chronically disabled by such medical conditions as heart disease, hemiplegia, arthritis and tuberculosis so that their remaining physical capacities may be used and their working life-span lengthened.

Word Experts
In America has a larger vocabulary than William Shakespeare used in all of his published writings! According to experts, "the average high school senior has a total vocabulary of approximately 60,000 words, made up of about 46,500 basic words and an estimated 33,500 derived words." They point out that "various scholars (who have) counted the number of different words used by great writers in all of their published works, have found the total number for Shakespeare to be 15,000 (basic) words." Total school grades, including basic and derived words, is given by Dr. Seay: fourth grade, 24,000 words; third grade, 44,000 words; fifth grade, 51,000 words; seventh grade, 58,000 words; ninth grade, 62,500 words; and eleventh grade, 73,000 words. Basic vocabulary for the four-year old has been estimated, on 5,500 basis of recent studies, at 5,500 words.

Put Children in Proper Frame of Mind at Bedtime
Child psychiatrists and psychologists all advocate pleasant bedtime discussions for children. Laughter makes the food digest more quickly and more easily than blues and sordidities at mealtime tend to upset the digestive systems, doctors say. The same psychology should apply to bedtime, then, too.

Back in 1900 a doctor published a book stating that "if there ever was a time when children should be treated kindly and talked to pleasantly, it is in the evening when retiring or after they are in bed." And in this manner, times haven't changed one bit since 1900.

Children should be taught that going to bed is pleasant. They should never be scolded or reprimanded and then put to bed, for then the bed becomes a symbol of punishment. This tenseness, nervousness and anger which arises interferes with child's sleep.

The time before the children retire should be devoted to quieting or other mild diversion conditions for "lighting out" and to play, gently shouldn't be allowed to play strenuously before retiring, for while it is fun and wears them out, it also excites them and causes them to be tense rather than relaxed.

INAUGURATE PLANS FOR HANDLING TRAFFIC

Approaching winter weather will bring its annual slowdown to highway construction throughout the state this month as engineers put into operation plans made much earlier for handling traffic in cold and wet weather.

Each project, engineers pointed out, is an individual case, but as a rule, complete or partial shutdowns are imposed during November on nearly all construction when winter weather makes traffic conditions difficult and interfere seriously with construction progress. All shutdowns usually are lifted on the first of April.

In some instances, particularly where state convict road forces must be employed throughout the year, construction will not be stopped, but there is other work to be done.

French Burglar Is Upset When Wife Deserts Him
PARIS—Etienne Lemaître, a convicted burglar awaiting trial on a murder charge, thought that he had good grounds when his wife ran off with another man, and so committed suicide.

"I'm a burglar, sure," he said, "I have stolen millions. But when a burglar's wife runs off with a policeman, that's really the limit."

The understanding court fined the wife 6,000 francs ($17.16) for adultery and a married Lemaître one franc ($0.04) for damages.

Renewal

Nov. 20. We wish for our pleasant Thanksgiving under way, try to make it a day when everybody will have a good time.

Let us hope every one will be careful with their guns and that the hunters will be on his farm and be happy of the farmer and his family.

Mr. Bob Wheeler and Mr. Henry Beard and son, Lawrence visited Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Chick on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howlette Drinkard and daughter, Arlene and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beard and son, Lawrence visited Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Chick on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Drinkard and son, Malcolm visited Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Drinkard on Saturday night.

The Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Hughes and children were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Carson on Saturday.

When this column is published, giving will have one more week to report votes that the Carver student body will have each day of Thanksgiving and did make someone else less than we happy.

And so, for our Thanksgiving week:

"From too much love of From hope and fear we have we have each had a Thanksgiving and did make someone else less than we happy."
